BRZ2100.1D / BRZ2400.1D / BRZ3000.1D PRO MONO AMPLIFIER APPLICATIONS

Basic application

SINGLE AMP INSTALLATION PROCEDURE:

1. Connect the amp LINE INPUTS to the Radio/CD player full range or mono line out with good quality RCA interconnect cables.
2. Plug in the 10A fuse remote module into the amp REMOTE INPUT jack.
3. Route a 10 gauge power cable directly to the vehicle battery with an in-line fuse.
4. Connect a 10 gauge ground cable directly to chassis ground with a 30" of the amp.

Note: The amplifier will not work if the MASTER/SLAVE switch is in the Slave position.

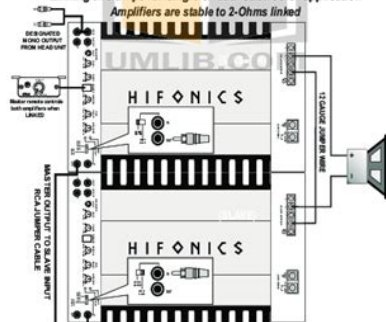

DUAL AMP INSTALLATION PROCEDURE:

1. Connect the amp LINE INPUTS to the Radio/CD player full range or mono line out with good quality RCA interconnect cables.
2. Plug in the 10A fuse remote module into the amp REMOTE INPUT jack on the Master amp. This will allow the Master amp to control both Master and Slave amps with just one fuse.
3. Connect an RCA jumper cable from the Master amp MASTER OUTPUT to the Slave amp SLAVE INPUT. Note: This will "tie" the amps so that the Master amp crossover switches will control both the Master and Slave amps. The Slave amp crossover switches will be bypassed.

4. Route two 10 gauge power cables directly to the vehicle battery with an in-line fuse.
5. Connect two 10 gauge ground cables directly to the chassis with a 30" of the amp.
6. Make sure the Master amp MASTER/SLAVE switch is in the MASTER position.
7. Connect the subwoofers in accordance to the diagrams below.
8. Connect a 10 gauge jumper from Master amp speaker - to Slave amp speaker - as shown below.

Linking two amps for single or dual subwoofer application

I have it hooked up to Cerwin Vega Vmax 12 running at 1 ohm. The subs are rated at 600 RMS a piece and this amp rocks them. Great Price, Great Amp for pushing SPL!! Great amp for the price. If you buy this amp take it ez on your Each speaker is jumping out the box. Its stupid loud. I upgraded from a 1000 watt Interfire amp IB2900C, by the way a good amp, discontinued though. This amp pushes these subs 2 times as hard as the other amp. Never overheats or even gets warm. Hifonics is a top notch company, and has been for many years. I can compare them to Memphis and MTX Audio. They have a way with amps. Im impressed with it. And I am a very very hard person to satisfy. Might sell the system one day but will never let go of the amp. So loud it makes my cds skip and theyre brand new with no scratches on them. This amp is louder than a Memphis PRD1000.1. Amp is a beast; really a brute. Loud crystal clear bass. This amp is cleaner sounding and i did notice more power going into my subs. I definitely need some trunk dampening now actually the whole car. I notice a little more quality in this amp compared to my audiobahn. This is your amp if your looking for accurate bass. This amp is cheap and and worth every penny its worth. Cracked his taillights and had to seal his trunk with foam. Great product. So am screwd by these frauds and junk made in china amp that has american flag on the box a total fraud also. I fixed some MTX amps before an am up to the challenge, Perry helped me last time. I opened the amp and found that some FETs and resistors are shot. As you can see in these pictures What could cause this Please upload images instead of linking to them to prevent this. Please upload images instead of linking to them to prevent this. Also those metal clips that press on FETs, how do they come off and on All of the transistors on the opposite are probably outputs. If the outputs failed, thats what caused the power supply to fail. <http://adana-kompresor.com/userfiles/dell-r210-service-manual.xml>

If they didn't fail, a random component failure in the supply could have caused the supply to fail or there could be another problem like a shorted transformer. So simply replacing items that are visually failed will not correct the problem. If the outputs failed do you say that they could fail but visually they won't burn like those. To give the outputs a quick check, measure the resistance between the legs of the individual transistors. No transistor should have anything near 0 ohms between any of its 3 legs. If you find any that read 0 ohms, they or a parallel connected transistor has failed. You'd have to pull them to determine which ones have failed. If you have any shorted output transistors, there may be damage on the driver board vertical board near the two large black capacitors. To repair that board, it may take quite a bit of patience because you'd likely have to replace one or more of the surface mount transistors. What's the number on that driver board, DWM0608Am taking this apart tomorrow, and test those output transistors. The other one is the audio driver board. Does it look like this? How much do you think the components will cost me to fix this Brutus? You can use a Moser 844IRFZ44PBF in place of the SFP parts. Before you order parts, you need to remove all of the power supply FETs, clean all of the solder pads up so that there are no solder bridges and power up the amp. You probably won't read anything on the other side of a few of the resistors because some are burned and may be open. After replacing the resistors, you should read the same voltage on both legs of the resistors. Resources saved on this page MySQL 15.79% vBulletin Optimisation provided by. See details. Ships same day if ordered before 3pm CST. See details. This model is stable at 4, 2, and 1 ohm. What does that mean for you.

To get the most power out of this amplifier you want to wire your subwoofers so the amplifier runs at 1ohm meaning you will need either one dual 2ohm subwoofer, or two dual 4ohm subwoofers. These are the two easiest combinations to hook up, however other variations may work as well. Most orders placed before 300 PM CST will ship within 24 hours. Typically this is counterclockwise as far as possible. Next, turn your head unit volume up until you start to hear clipping. It won't be loud, so don't confuse distorted sound with something so loud that it hurts. With the head unit slightly below the point at which it distorts you should gradually increase the EQS gain until you again start to hear distortion. Again, do not confuse loud with distortion. Lastly, with the head unit and EQS both set slightly below distortion you should turn the gain up on your amp until you hear distortion and then back off slightly. At this point I would expect the volume to be loud and possibly painful. An alternative, if you know the appropriate output voltages is to use a DMM. The biggest difference is that you disconnect the speakers, and b measure the voltage output compared to spec instead of listening for distortion. dDigital Point modules Sphinxbased search.
