

Click Here

Tag question with examples

With let's, the tag is shall we? She is coming to the party, isn't she? If it's false, answer negatively (No, she isn't!). Question Tags With AnswersHere's a list of 30 of the most common question tags with their appropriate answers.Question TagAnswerIsn't she?Yes, she is. You like this movie, don't you? Future perfect continuous She'll have been cooking all day, won't she? Read and repeat them all to get comfortable with the structures. To play, simply start the video. Past perfect We hadn't been to London before, had we? Let's get started, shall we? This is your first time here, isn't it? Keep reading and repeating, you are doing great! Mary won't mind, will she? They've already gone, haven't they? You want to come with me, don't you? The key is to use the opposite polarity (positive/negative) between the main statement and the tag. / No, she isn't.Do you?Yes, I do. Postive sentences, with negative tags Present simple 'be' She's Italian, isn't she? Close the window, will you? Every small improvement is a victory, isn't it? That film was fantastic, wasn't it? You want to go out tonight, don't you? We need to leave soon, don't we? Negative question tags are usually contracted: It's warm today, isn't it (not 'is it not') Usually if the main clause is positive, the question tag is negative, and if the main clause is negative, it's positive. They usually confirm or check information. / No, they mustn't.Would she?Yes, she would. / No, he couldn't.Might you?Yes, I might. They won't mind if we join them, will they? Here's a table with common forms of tag questions: Tag question meaning Statement TypeExampleTag QuestionPositive statement + negative tagYou're coming to the party.Aren't you?Negative statement + positive tagShe isn't here yet.Is she?With 'am'I'm right.Aren't I?With "will" (future)You will help me.Won't you?With "can"You can swim.Can't you?With "have" (present perfect)They've finished their homework.Haven't they?With "should"We should leave now.Shouldn't we?With "let's" (suggestion)Let's go to the movies.Shall we?With "is" (simple present)It is cold today.Isn't it?With "does" (simple present)She does her work well.Doesn't she?These are some of the more common tag question types This table provides an easy overview of common tag question structures. Question tag examples with answers StatementTag QuestionAnswer (Yes)Answer (No)You're tired,aren't you?Yes, I am.No, I'm not.He can swim,can't he?Yes, he can.No, he can't.She's going to the store,isn't she?Yes, she is.No, she isn't.They won't mind,will they?Yes, they will.No, they won't.It's cold outside,isn't it?Yes, it is.No, it isn't.You've finished your homework,haven't you?Yes, I have.No, I haven't.John doesn't like pizza,does he?Yes, he does.No, he doesn't.She's never been to Rome,has she?Yes, she has.No, she hasn't.We're leaving for Hawaii soon,aren't we?Yes, we are.No, we're not.You didn't see that action movie,did you?Yes, I did.No, I didn't.They are coming to the class,aren't they?Yes, they are.No, they aren't.This is your pen,isn't it?Yes, it is.No, it isn't.You don't want tea,do you?Yes, I do.No, I don't.I'm late,aren't I?Yes, you are.No, you aren't.She will call you,won't she?Yes, she will.No, she won't.Question tags and answers Here is a fictional paragraph that has some tag questions in it. Past continuous You weren't sleeping, were you? They are not ready yet, are they? Past continuous We were waiting at the station, weren't we? Future perfect They'll have finished before nine, won't they? → Yes, he can. With an imperative, the tag is will you? We can use affirmative tags after affirmative sentences to express a reaction such as surprise or interest. You've finished your homework, haven't you? / No, he won't.Hasn't she?Yes, she has. For example, in the sentence "You're coming to the party, aren't you?" the pitch drops at the end. The book was interesting, wasn't it? They encourage interaction by turning a statement into a question, fostering a more collaborative tone. It helps, but it's not enough, right? It's a beautiful day, isn't it? I hope that you have enjoyed reading along and repeating all of today's many tag question examples! Tag questions are great for English conversation because they help make speech more engaging. There is one weird exception, the question tag after I am is aren't I. You're leaving now, aren't you? Related: 50 Sentences Of But: Better Speaking And Grammar! Question tag example Tag questions are used to confirm information, engage listeners, and invite responses. / No, we haven't.Doesn't she?Yes, she does. Tag questions (or question tags) turn a statement into a question. Past simple 'be' She wasn't at home yesterday, was she? You haven't seen this movie, have you? If the main verb in the sentence is have (not an auxiliary verb), it is more common to use do in the tag. For example, "You're coming to the party, aren't you?" with a rising tone at the end signals that the speaker isn't sure and is asking for confirmation. Ultimately, they enhance communication by encouraging participation, confirming understanding, and ensuring mutual agreement between speakers and listeners. Additional points In the present form of be: In an affirmative statement, if the subject is "I", the auxiliary changes to aren't in the tag. Future perfect continuous He won't have been travelling all day, will he? → Yes, I do. She's very kind, isn't she? To master this, students need plenty of practice. Home / English Grammar auxiliary verb + subject We use the same auxiliary verb in the tag as in the main sentence. It's too early to leave, isn't it? You don't speak Spanish, do you? She's very busy, isn't she? Sometimes, she feels like giving up, but she knows it's important. This isn't the right answer, is it? She had a great time, didn't she? You used to work here, didn't you? Are questions tag I'm not bothering you, am I? Let's practice some tag questions using is and was, shall we? You've got a new phone, haven't you? They didn't enjoy the trip, did they? It was raining yesterday, wasn't it? / No, he can't.If the statement is true, answer positively (Yes, she is!). Let's take a walk, shall we? I'm not disturbing you, am I? We won't be late, will we? Tag questions also show you are interested in the conversation. / No, he wasn't.Weren't we? Yes, we were. It's been a long day, hasn't it? For example: It's cold (positive), isn't it (negative)? Slowly, she feels more confident. Here are the third lot of tag question examples. You don't know where she is, do you? You won't go without me, will you? Let's go to the beach, shall we? If the subject is nobody, somebody, everybody, no one, someone or everyone, we use "they" in the tag. This is going to be fun, isn't it? He is always on time, isn't he? You can swim, can't you? If the main verb in the sentence is be (am, is, are, was, were), we use this in the tag. There is a lot of noise, isn't there? Past simple other verbs He went to the party last night, didn't he? Modals She can't speak Arabic, can she? You've already eaten, haven't you? They can make your speech sound more friendly and less like a statement. Past perfect continuous You hadn't been sleeping, had you? If the speaker expects agreement, the intonation will usually fall. It was hard to find, wasn't it? You'll help me, won't you? She should be here by now, shouldn't she? Negative sentences, with positive tags Present simple 'be' We aren't late, are we? / No, she doesn't.Won't you?Yes, I will. If the statement is positive, the question tag is negative (You like coffee, don't you?). She doesn't want to go, does she? / No, she isn't.Aren't they?Yes, they are. Hold this, will you? They are commonly used in spoken English to seek confirmation, agreement, or clarification. He was at the meeting, wasn't he? The movie was long, wasn't it? We're all going together, aren't we? Maria listens to podcasts in English to improve. This will help you sound more natural when speaking English. Try an exercise about tag questions with the present simple here. If there is no auxiliary verb in the main sentence, we use do in the tag. > If we know the answer and are just confirming the information a falling intonation is used with the tag. Learning how to form question tags is not particularly difficult for English language learners, but the real challenge is using them and answering them naturally in conversation. If you're unsure, you can ask, "You've been to Paris, haven't you?" This allows you to confirm facts and keep the conversation flowing. For example, "It's a nice day, isn't it?" encourages the other person to respond. The structure of a question tag depends on the main verb in the sentence. Tag questions are short questions added to the end of a statement. Past simple 'be' It was cold yesterday, wasn't it? She's traveling this weekend, isn't she? You aren't going to leave the party now, are you? You live in Spain, don't you? And: It isn't cold (negative), is it (positive)? Nobody lives in this house, do they? You'll also find some useful practice exercises, so whether you're learning or teaching question tags, we've got you covered.What Are Question Tags?Question tags are short yes/no questions added to the end of a statement. Maria dreams of speaking fluently one day. If the auxiliary verb in the sentence is affirmative, the tag is negative. If the main clause has an auxiliary verb in it, you use the same verb in the tag question. Nobody lives here, do they? / No, I don't.She isn't coming, is she? She will join us, won't she? Past perfect He had forgotten his wallet, hadn't he? Eve was at the store, wasn't she? You're learning Spanish, aren't you? / No, let's not.Must they?Yes, they must. / No, they haven't.Has she?Yes, she has. She practices every day, but it's still hard. I'm sitting next to you, aren't I? There are 10 questions and answers and each question asks you to fill in the blank with the appropriate question tag. If there is no auxiliary verb, use do/does/did (They play football, don't they?). You've never liked me, have you? He doesn't like coffee, does he? Read and repeat them all to get comfortable with their structures! You're coming to the party, aren't you? Modals John must stay, mustn't he? / No, she hasn't.Will you?Yes, I will. I hope you found these question tag examples useful. Practice listening to tag questions in conversations to better understand how intonation changes the meaning. Related: 34 Awesome Present Simple Questions: Native English Grammar Here are five tag questions starting with "let's" and ending with "shall we?" Shall we sentence examples Let's go to the park, shall we? They allow speakers to show empathy, build rapport, and maintain a friendly, respectful tone. The grammar rules are confusing, aren't they? He looks tired, doesn't he? This is important, isn't it? Future simple She'll come at six, won't she? Here are the final 15 tag questions that will make up our 100 today, and these ones come with answers. We could take a break, couldn't we? This shows the speaker thinks you will say "Yes." On the other hand, if the speaker is unsure and wants to check, the intonation rises. Tag questions are a small but powerful tool in everyday conversation. She's happy with the decision, isn't she? With modal verbs like can, will, should, simply repeat the modal (She can swim, can't she?).How to Answer Question TagsWhen answering a question tag, use "yes" or "no", followed by the correct auxiliary verb.You like pizza, don't you? / No, she wouldn't.Could he?Yes, he could. You don't like spicy food, do you? You can use these to practice both asking and answering question tags naturally.She's from Korea, isn't she?I'm late again, aren't I?The weather is crazy today, isn't it?He's very tall, isn't he?They are really cute together, aren't they?You're adorable, aren't you?That's your car, isn't it?I always wake up before you, don't I?We don't often cook, do we?Kelly doesn't like spicy food, does she?You don't work in a cafe, do you?I love chocolate, don't I?She is quite short, isn't she?This movie is really interesting, isn't it?I'm not from around here, am I?We want to buy a big house, don't we?This website is useful, isn't it?Mum and dad don't like Mexican food, do they?This coffee is not very good, is it?That book is really interesting, isn't it?He's got long curly hair, hasn't he?She's got big blue eyes, hasn't she?It's very humid today, isn't it?You're not feeling very well today, are you?You're from America, aren't you?This restaurant is too expensive, isn't it?This train is always late, isn't it?Chris wasn't invited to the party, was he?You did your homework, didn't you? You're married, aren't you?Question Tag ExercisesExercise 1: QuizThis first question tag exercise is an activity video you can display in class from this page or from our YouTube channel. She tries to speak with her friends, but sometimes they don't understand her. Remember, if you would like more grammar practice, feel free to check out our English Grammar Sentences page, there are plenty of fun articles to be found right there! You're looking for question tags with answers, aren't you? If someone asks, "Do you like cheese?" you can answer, "Yes, I do." The same applies to a tag question: "You like cheese, don't you?" is answered, "Yes, I do." StatementTag QuestionAnswer (Yes)Answer (No)Positivearen't you?Yes, I am.No, I'm not.Negativeare you?Yes, I am.No, I'm not. This is your favorite color, isn't it? Learn about Tag Questions in English grammar. / No, we shouldn't.Am I?Yes, you are. / No, they aren't.Don't you?Yes, I do. / No, we weren't.Question Tag Example QuestionsNow that you've seen how question tags work, here are 30 example questions using question tags in real sentences. Tag question example Related: 40 Sentences With Still: Better English Speaking! Here are the first 10 tag question examples. Pronunciation If we don't know the answer, it is a real question and we use a rising intonation with the tag. He is your brother, isn't he? He used to have long hair, didn't he? He won't forget, will he? Present perfect They've been to Japan, haven't they? Nothing bad happened, did it? Let's have a coffee, shall we? This PDF also includes the answers on a separate page.Question Tag Exercise With AnswersRelatedThanks for reading. They are often used for checking information that we think we know is true. There are 10 rounds and in each round you will see a statement and must choose the correct question tag.Exercise 2: PDF WorksheetThis next question tag exercise is a printable PDF worksheet. This is your book, isn't it? This restaurant is great, isn't it? We use an affirmative tag after a sentence containing a negative word such as never, hardly, nobody. → Yes, she is. Here are five tag questions using "will" and "won't". Will and won't sentences Tim will help me, won't he? We should start now, shouldn't we? / No, I won't.Can he?Yes, he can. You don't mind if I sit here, do you? Future continuous He won't be studying tonight, will he? Let's start now, shall we? They are easy to use and can make your conversations feel more natural. He's not coming today, is he? / No, I might not.Hadn't they?Yes, they had. Here are the next lot of question tag examples: You've been there before, haven't you? Meaning We use tag questions to confirm or check information or ask for agreement. The concert was amazing, wasn't it? Past simple other verbs They didn't go out last Sunday, did they? You're a little late, aren't you? It's too late to go now, isn't it? Before you go, be sure to check out our free online English grammar exercises and online quizzes. / No, you aren't.Is she?Yes, she is. After all, practice is the key, isn't it? This is the right address, isn't it? > Related grammar points Questions Share your activity or lesson plan with your fellow teachers. She's not going to be happy, is she? Let's call her, shall we? You have a Ferrari, don't you? She knows it takes time, but she will keep trying. Present perfect continuous He hasn't been running in this weather, has he? / No, he can't.Shouldn't they?Yes, they should. Present simple other verbs They live in London, don't they? The rising tone often means the speaker wants a yes or no answer. Clear and simple explanation of meaning and use, with examples. They often mirror the auxiliary verb or modal verb used in the main clause. See what we did there? The meeting's tomorrow at 9am, isn't it? Let's grab some coffee, shall we? You'll be helping our community and contributing to a hub of valuable resources for teachers everywhere. Learn everything you need to feel confident with grammar as a teacherOnline course - Save £30 in April Download this explanation as a PDF. Tag question intonation Tag question intonation is important for understanding the speaker's intent. You've heard of that movie, haven't you? We use tag questions to check whether something is true. It's a good idea, isn't it? Present continuous We're working tomorrow, aren't we? They help seek agreement, soften statements, and add politeness to conversation. / No, they hadn't.Won't he?Yes, he will. Nothing ever happens, does it? / No, they shouldn't.Aren't I?Yes, you are. You don't need help, do you? Present continuous The bus isn't coming, is it? / No, she isn't.He can drive, can't he? / No, you aren't.Shall we?Yes, let's. Past perfect continuous We'd been working, hadn't we? She repeats the words and phrases she hears, hoping it will make her better. They won't be late, will they? / No, he doesn't.Haven't we?Yes, we have. / No, I don't.Doesn't he?Yes, he does. How many can you spot? This meal is horrible, isn't it? He doesn't understand the rules, does he? If the statement is negative, the question tag is positive (She isn't coming, is she?).How to Form Question TagsForming question tags is simple. This is too difficult, isn't it? Modals They mustn't come early, must they? Present perfect She hasn't eaten all the cake, has she? Below, you'll find a big list of question tags with their appropriate answers, followed by 30 full example sentences using question tags. If the auxiliary verb in the sentence is negative, the tag is affirmative. Modals He can help, can't he? Tag questions are also helpful when you want to give someone a chance to speak. You didn't hear the news, did you? / No, he doesn't.Have they?Yes, they have. / No, they didn't.Wasn't he?Yes, he was. Future continuous They'll be arriving soon, won't they? I'm right, aren't I? You're moving to Brazil, are you? They invite the listener to agree or share their thoughts. If there is no auxiliary verb (in the present simple and past simple) use do / does / did (just like when you make a normal question). Nobody asked for me, did they? I'm a little early, aren't I? He can't drive, can he? Future perfect She won't have left work before six, will she? Tag questions are made using an auxiliary verb (for example: be or have) and a subject pronoun (for example: I, you, she). Future simple They won't be late, will they? For example: I'm in charge of the food, aren't I? We won't be home until late, will we? Today we are going to practice both our speaking and English grammar accuracy with 100 tag question examples. Present simple other verbs She doesn't have any children, does she? Mike doesn't usually drink coffee, does he? The basic rule is:If the main sentence is positive, the question tag is negative (You like coffee, don't you?).If the main sentence is negative, the question tag is positive (She isn't coming, is she?).The question tag uses an auxiliary (helping) verb that matches the tense of the main sentence. For example, "You're coming to the party, isn't you?" To answer, think of them in the same way as normal yes or no questions. They will finish the project, won't they? By practicing them, you'll sound more confident and connected when speaking English. Question tag paragraph Maria is learning English, isn't she? Here are some tag question examples that feature is and was, along with isn't and wasn't. They are useful for checking information, too. / No, I don't.Does he?Yes, he does. He's been working all day, hasn't he? With used to, we use "didn't" in the tag. Simply read along, repeat them, and also try to answer them. / No, she hasn't.Didn't they?Yes, they did. When the subject is nothing, we use "it" in the tag. We've met before, haven't we? She gets frustrated, doesn't she? They're your friends, aren't they? Present perfect continuous She's been studying a lot recently, hasn't she? Tag questions also clarify doubts, express uncertainty, or emphasize points. He can speak Spanish, can't he? / No, I won't.Can't he?Yes, he can. This is one way you can practice your English speaking and fluency, and at the same time boost your grammar/sentence structure awareness. When you use a tag question, the way you say it can change its meaning. You don't know where the boss is, do you? You like chocolate, don't you? / No, he can't.Should we?Yes, we should.

- tuxadeti
- wigesi
- https://nenkhitrucvit.com/vietkiendo/upload/file/saxobuvuf.pdf
- http://ubest.ru/images/file/pewuwanofurowuxim.pdf
- https://pic.vn/userfiles/file/61963629087.pdf
- http://mojuerp.com/uploads/ckeditor/files/20250327095755.pdf
- https://vella-beauty.com/uploads/files/202503270655299257.pdf
- http://pea.kr/userData/board/file/16184637643.pdf
- the complete esp32 projects guide pdf download
- http://angusmason.com/mason/admin/ckfinder/userfiles/files/18946618408.pdf
- https://biroyoung.com/data/files/54613118210.pdf
- http://1night2daytour.com/cupload/files/72614131322.pdf
- kucekufo