

Continue

How to set stop loss on webull

Webull Financial LLC is a registered broker-dealer with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and a member of various financial institutions, including FINRA, SIPC, NYSE, NASDAQ, and CBOE EDGX Exchange, Inc. The company offers futures trading with substantial risk, not suitable for all investors. Before trading, customers must read the Risk Disclosure Statement and Futures Disclosures on their website. Webull Advisors LLC provides advisory services, registered with the SEC under the Investment Advisors Act of 1940. Trades are executed by Webull Financial LLC. Client accounts at Webull Financial LLC are protected up to $500,000 through Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). Excess SIPC coverage can reach $100 million for certain accounts, subject to a maximum limit. However, futures positions and cash held outside the securities account are not covered. Investing in standardized options involves understanding its characteristics and risks. It's essential to acknowledge that all investments carry risk, and not all risks are suitable for every investor. The value of securities can fluctuate, causing clients to lose more than their original investment. Diversification may help spread risk, but it doesn't guarantee a profit or protect against loss in a down market. Investors must carefully consider their objectives and risks before investing. Margin trading increases the risk of loss and requires account equity levels below certain thresholds, while leverage carries a high level of risk and is not suitable for all investors. Investors should be aware that various factors can affect system response, execution prices, speed, liquidity, market data, and account access times. Market volatility and other factors may delay trade executions. Webull Financial offers free trading on stocks, ETFs, and options with $0 commissions for self-directed accounts, but applicable fees apply to certain index options and oversized option orders. 1. Trading Order Procedures: * Users can place orders at any time through the client terminal. * Each main order supports up to two sub-orders. * Time-in-force options include "Day" or "Good 'Till Canceled (GTC)," where the system automatically cancels unfilled orders after a set period. 2. Trigger Order Specifications: * Main order price trading periods can be set to "Include Extended Hours" or "Only Regular Hours." * Sub-orders are limited to regular hours only. * Upon trigger, the system submits the default order to the market. 3. Limit + Take Profit/Stop Loss Order Guidelines: * Supports same equity only. * Triggered orders may not be executed; users must place new orders if necessary. * Trigger conditions become ineffective after execution or non-execution of corresponding orders. 4. Trading Restrictions and Considerations: * Orders for closing positions exceeding open position quantities will not execute. * Triggered orders are limited to allowed trading hours. * Main and sub-order expiry dates must align. 5. Supported Products and Trading Services: * US stocks support long opening, buy-to-close, short opening, sell-to-close. * US stock options support long opening, sell-to-close. 6. Regulatory Information and Disclosures: * Webull Financial LLC offers securities trading to self-directed customers; registered with the SEC and FINRA. * Futures and futures options involve significant risk; read Risk Disclosure Statement and relevant disclosures at www.webull.com/fcm-disclosures before trading. * Advisory accounts and services provided by Webull Advisors LLC, an Investment Advisor registered with the SEC. Apex has extended coverage up to $100 million per account at Lloyd's of London, with a maximum limit of $1,900,000 for any customer's cash. This policy doesn't apply to securities positions. For fully-disclosed securities accounts, Apex has an additional insurance policy covering up to $150 million, with limits of $37.5 million for securities and $900,000 for cash per customer. Accounts with similar names are combined for determining a covered account, but those with different titles aren't. Futures and other assets outside the securities account aren't protected. SIPC and Excess SIPC Protections don't cover market value losses in securities. Options trading carries significant risk and isn't suitable for all investors, as rapid loss of investment value is possible within a short time frame and potential losses can exceed initial deposits. Approval from Webull Financial LLC is required before engaging in options trading. All investments involve some level of risk, and diversification may not eliminate the possibility of experiencing losses. Margin trading increases this risk, and leverage can amplify losses due to adverse market movements. System responses, execution prices, speed, liquidity, market data, and account access times are influenced by various factors including market volatility, order size, and system performance. Market conditions, volume, and availability may delay trade executions and account access. Free trading of stocks, ETFs, and options refers to $0 commissions for Webull Financial LLC self-directed individual cash or margin brokerage accounts and IRAs that trade U.S. listed securities via mobile devices, desktop, or website products, contract fees may apply for specific index options, as well as an additional $0.10 per contract fee for oversized option orders. Regulatory and exchange charges might also come into play. Check our Fee Schedule for further details. No content on the Webull Financial LLC website should be taken as investment advice or a prompt to buy/sell securities, options, or other investment products. All data and info provided is for reference purposes only; historical trends shouldn't be used as a basis for predicting future market movements. Webull Financial LLC offers self-directed trading services for customers through its registration with the SEC (Securities and Exchange Commission) and membership in relevant industry organizations such as FINRA, SIPC, NYSE, NASDAQ, and Cboe EDGX Exchange. Webull is also registered as a Futures Commission Merchant with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) and a Member of the National Futures Association (NFA), emphasizing that futures and options trading comes with significant risks and may not be suitable for all investors. Before engaging in these products, read the Risk Disclosure Statement and other relevant futures disclosures located at www.webull.com/fcm-disclosures. It's also important to note that advisory services are provided by Webull Advisors LLC (also known as "Webull Advisors"), a registered investment advisor regulated by the SEC under the Investment Advisors Act of 1940. However, registration does not imply any level of skill or training. Regarding account protection, SIPC coverage provides maximum protection of $500,000 (with a cash sublimit of $250,000) for securities accounts at Webull Financial LLC. Additionally, Excess SIPC coverage offers extended per-account coverage for securities and cash up to an aggregate of $100 million, subject to maximum limits for individual customers. Please visit: (i) (ii) Options trading involves significant risk and is not suitable for all investors, as they can quickly lose their initial investment or even incur permanent losses. Investors should complete an options trading application and receive approval on eligible accounts before trading. It's essential to read the Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options beforehand. All investments come with inherent risks, and some may not be appropriate for every investor. The value of securities can fluctuate, resulting in potential losses exceeding initial deposits. Past performance does not guarantee future results or returns. Diversification may help spread risk but does not ensure a profit or protect against loss in a down market. Investors should carefully consider their investment objectives and risks before investing. Margin trading increases the risk of loss and includes the possibility of forced sales if account equity falls below required levels. Margin is not available in all accounts, and privileges are subject to review and approval by Webull Financial LLC. Leverage carries significant risk and is not suitable for all investors. Investors should be aware that system response, execution price, speed, liquidity, market data, and account access times may be affected by various factors, including market volatility, order size and type, market conditions, system performance, and others. Market volatility, volume, and system availability may delay account access and trade executions. Free trading of stocks, ETFs, and options refers to $0 commissions for self-directed individual cash or margin brokerage accounts and IRAs that trade U.S. listed securities through mobile devices, desktop, or website products. Certain index options are subject to a $0.55 per contract fee, while oversized option orders incur a $0.10 per contract fee. Relevant regulatory and exchange fees may apply. Please refer to our Fee Schedule for more details. No content on the Webull Financial LLC website should be considered as a recommendation or solicitation for the purchase or sale of securities, options, or other investment products. All information and data provided are for reference only, with no historical data serving as a basis for judging future trends.