Hello, subnaunts! we are writing to you today to let you know that we have made the difficult decision to close the forums of unknown worlds. we want to thank you all for your support here in reporting bug, and provide feedback both on subnautical and under zero, during the early access course and beyond. your support remains, as always, incredibly important and valuable to us. and with this in mind, we would like to invite you to continue interacting with us and the wider community on some of our most active platforms, especially our official discord. all content on the forums will be available in read-only mode, but it will no longer be possible to create new topics or posts from 21 June 2021. we hope to welcome you all on our discord platforms and other communities very soon. continues to dive, team of unknown worlds. Home> Subnautica> subnautica su console tried to find the last fragment for a time stupidly long. and nothing would kno if the xb1 version is the same as what is said on the wiki. or if not someone kno where I should be looking please! sign in or register to comment. subnautical under zero was completely released on 14 May 2021, after a successful period in early access. After the positive reception of the original subnautica, the sequel reintroduces many of the same elements of gameplay and mechanics. Both start with a crash on 4546b and require players to fight to stay alive in the waters haunted by predators. both games also allow players to create vehicles to allow them to deepen or branch further. Insurprisingly, creating vehicles on an alien planet is easier to say than done. like every great open-world game, subnautical under zero offers a minimal guide and guide, allowing players to explore the huge ocean of 4546b in any way and in any direction they choose. Although this offers a great sense of freedom, it can also make it difficult to understand how to progress. for anyone who has trouble implementing vehicles or implementing their updates, here is a guide to make each vehicle in the game. updated on 24 October 2021, by jack pursey: subnautical under the huge ocean of zero can make it very difficult to track down some resources, especially when players are not sure where to look. Therefore, even if it is all right and well know how to build subnautical vehicles under zero, tracking of the required materials can be a frustrating challenge. Luckily, the world of the game is separated into distinct areas that contain their common resource series. areas can be distinct from their visual designs, which is useful as there is no map function in the game. for those who prefer to have a map to refer to, there are some online that can offer a handMaking the areas referred to as easier to find. To offer players a hand with the search for some of the most requested resources for subnautical vehicles below zero, we added a table that details the less dangerous areas to find them. Find them. Finding the Most Common Resources As mentioned earlier, here is a table detailing three of the least hazardous locations to search for some of the most common resources on this list: Resource Location 1 Location 2 Hours of Copper 3 (used for copper wire and batteries) Shallow Twisty Bridges Twisty Arctic Kelp Forest Gold Twisty Bridges Twisty Bridges Arctic Kelp Forest Lead Twisty Bridges Baseline Twisty Bridges Arctic Kelp Forest Lithium Spires Spires Purple Vents Tree Spires Creepvine Seed Cluster The Seaglide is the first vehicle that most players craft. Although it does not provide the player with additional protection, it greatly increases their speed, making hunting for the first game resources much easier. In addition, it allows players to deepen the ocean, as the higher speed means that the player can recover to the surface if their oxygen is close to depletion. The Seaglide is also very useful as the player equips it as an item rather than being something they have to find and take manually with them. This is one of the biggest advantages of Seaglide, as it means players can whip it quickly when they see one of the game's predators approaching, helping them make a quick escape. Where to find Seaglide fragments: Arctic Kelp Caves Outpost Zero Shallow Twisty Bridges Twisty Bridges Craft Resources and Objects Seaglide: Fabricator 1x Battery 1x Lubricant 1x Copper Wire 1x Titanium Seatruck The Seatruck is a new vehicle introduced in Sub Nautical Under Zero. The vehicle is initially very similar to the Seamoth, but differentiates itself by letting players add extra attachments, making it essentially a hybrid of the Seamoth and Cyclops from the original game. This makes the Seatruck an excellent vehicle to use prominently in mid-game. Players can quickly zip between the biomes, while also having a portable base to create essential items. Like the Seamoth, the Seatruck has a specific crushing depth. This is very important to know, as going down beyond the crushing depth, as the name suggests, start crushing the vehicle. The Seatruck starts with a crushing depth of 150m, but as detailed below, this can be increased to 1000m. Manufacturer 1x Computer Chip 2x Ruby 1x Power Cell 1x Polianiline Shrimp Suit The Shrimp Suit (Pressure Re-Active Waterproof Nano Suit) is a vehicle back from the original game. She is able to walk on the bottom of the ocean with her big, human-like legs, offering a different perspective on underwater travel in the game. Just like the Seatruck, the Shrimp Suit comes with its fair share of upgrades and add-ons. Unlike the Seatruck, however, upgrades require fragments to be analyzed, while modules do not. The shrimp costume is not as useful as it was in the original Subnautica, but it is still worth building for two reasons. First, it makes the player very hard to kill, thanks to its ability to take a ton of punishments and be repaired quickly if needed. Secondly, the player can use the shrimp costume to kill underwater creatures, either using his robotic arms to strike or using one of the upgrades listed below. Killing enemies in Subnautica Under Zero is worth it, since you don't respawn. Biomes allow players to take a break from exploring the depths of the ocean, even if they come with their problems. Fortunately, players don't have to explore the big biomes alone, as they can race through the snow on a new vehicle, the Snowfox. The Snowfox isn't as complex as the Seatruck or shrimp dress and doesn't have anywhere near the same amount of benefits and upgrades. However, the Snowfox is worth building, as speeding through arctic biomes will save a lot of time, also reducing the chances of hypothermia of the player.
