A painfully shy high school student, Tara has a secret: She's a confident DJ, also known as Radio Rebel, who lends her voice to others. Debbie Ryan is really making a movie. The way she portrays someone who is shy and afraid to go out is quite accurate. I like that the Disney movie decided to portray a more realistic character. It's not uncommon to see this type of character as a standout hero. The character development was surprisingly good. The man she loves is not very well. He invited another girl to prom, but then fell in love with someone else. I think this is not true. There is a surprise at the end that took me by surprise. I had to stop the movie to think. Overall I really enjoyed it and I think the character is a great role model. There are no ads on this site, so check it out to watch the latest movies and series for free.
