In an usual application sometimes you need to `€AAAadapt€AAA` the values from the view model. Using Converter And the last example, although I wouldn€AAAt really use it in this case (but shown nonetheless just for completeness sake): `public class TemperatureConverter : IValueConverter { public object Convert(object value, Type targetType, object parameter, CultureInfo culture) { return $"Temperature is {value} ºC"; } public object ConvertBack(object value, Type targetType, object parameter, CultureInfo culture) { throw new NotImplementedException(); } }` And here€AAAs how to use it in XAML. Most common formatting specifiers Formatting numbers using 2 decimal points is done using `F2` - `F` means floating point and the following digit is the number of decimal digits. This is normally done using `StringFormat`, but we€AAAll see some other options as well. I WANT TO DO THIS WITHOUT USING A CONVERTER. Simple `StringFormat` with binding escape `Let€AAAs` say that you need to display a temperature in degrees. But still it wont populate display the output. You can€AAAt perform that action at this time. Reload to refresh your session. 800 x 640 However the label control remains empty. Using `StackPanel` to group In this case you can just dump everything in a `StackPanel` having the `Orientation` set to `Horizontal`.
